

Suspect #6

Lady Lavender

Social-climbing artist Lady Lavender was widowed when her husband was mysteriously poisoned. She has turned her love of art and her hobby as a painter into a thriving business and a job at Blacklock Fine Arts. But competition from other talented staff members have threatened her top position. What will she resort to in order to keep her status.

Suspect #4

Mrs. Peacock

After losing her job as her daughter's manager, Mrs. Peacock applied for the job as Librarian for Blacklock Elementary. She was enraged when Mrs. Huang refused to give up her position and she was forced to become a teacher. Books are mysteriously disappearing from the library. Does this former celebrity and three-time widow have something to hide from her daughter and the rest of the staff?

Suspect #2

Miss Scarlet

Miss Scarlet is an aspiring actress with a history of bad reviews from the Australian drama critics. Afterwards she could only be hired as a drama teacher at Blacklock Elementary. Sadly this has left her bitter towards her manager/mother (Mrs. Peacock) and the students and staff. Her only souvenir from her acting days is a golden candelabra from the Australian stage.

Suspect #5

Mr. Green

The charming Mr. Green with the shady past is often seen in the computer lab, trying to fix our old computers for Miss Loulou. He is frustrated with the school for not properly caring for the ipads and laptops, and is suspected of having several run-ins with the law. What scheme is he planning to make himself rich?

Suspect #3

Major Mustard

Major Mustard, a cranky war hero recently returned from the Middle East, has taken a job at Blacklock Elementary teaching gym. His strict sense of order leads him to become easily angered at staff and students, especially when they leave his equipment room a disaster. He is often found with a skipping rope in his hand, which he uses to whip the floor to get attention.
